

ACADIA COMMUNITY FARM: 2011 Workshop Series

Organic Vegetable Garden Design

Saturday May 28th 1-4 p.m.

With Nikki Jabbour: Professional garden writer, radio show host, author of the Year Round Veggie Gardener blog and obsessive veggie gardener!

1.5 hours of hands-on basics on veggie garden designing...plus lots of questions and garden chat to start you off for the gardening season, either at home, or at your new Acadia Community Farm plot. Followed by a documentary screening of:

The Growing Edge: Permaculture: Beyond sustainability, to regeneration.

This is a great little 45 minute film on what Permaculture is, and what it can do, to whet your appetite for our next workshop.

Location: Acadia University Beveridge Arts Centre #138

Introduction to Permaculture Design

Friday June 17th 6-9 pm

3 hour, action-packed workshop that will help you discover your untapped potential for creating immense positive change starting at your back door.

Permaculture is a completely solutions-orientated approach to addressing environmental, social and energy-supply problems.

Location: KCIC Irving Centre Classroom

Seed Saving & Sustainability
